

ABSTRACT

A low profile evaporative cooler housing for attachment to a building includes a front panel, and an opposing rear panel that may have an extension that extends into a wall of the building. A first and second 5 louver may extend between the front and rear panels.